$30 million in defense spending locally

The Valley's five leading contributors to weapons research racked up $30 million in defense contracts last fiscal year according to spokesmen from the selected facilities.

This accounts for the local share of $10.1 billion that the Pentagon said it spent in the state during 1977 which led all states in defense contracts. The California totals for that period were about $1.1 billion higher than the previous year.

Lawrence Livermore Laboratory topped the list for local defense contracts accounting for $11.9 million in Department of Defense sponsored research during fiscal 1977 and $14.8 million for fiscal 1978.

LLL's spokesman, Mike Ross, said these funds include some 50 projects most of which range between $250,000 and $500,000 per project.

MBAssociates in San Ramon, which has made such weapons as "stun-guns," and "light anti-tank weapons" also received federal defense money. MBA's vice president, Thomas C. Archer, said they were awarded some $7 million in defense contracts last year. According to Archer, this money was used for about 24 projects principally in the area of aircraft protection. "We have approximately 300 jobs related to this defense spending," he added.

MBA grew from a six member staff in 1962 to its present size of 500. Their international business amounts to $15 million in sales per year. Their founder, Robert Mainhardt, resides in Pleasanton.

Another San Ramon outfit, EG&G Inc., accounts for some $8 million in defense contracts. Their spokesman said most of that money was used for underground testing in support of Lawrence Livermore Laboratory. EG&G Inc. also is participating in clean-up operations for the downed Russian spy satellite in Canada's Northwest Territory.

A spokesman for General Electric's Vallecitos nuclear facility claimed there are two classified Department of Defense projects at their plant amounting to contracts of $1 million for both fiscal years 1977 and 1978.

Bruce Hawkinson, spokesman for Sandia Laboratories in Livermore, said that no money was awarded to them for defense contracts in the last two years. It should be noted, however, that Sandia Labs in Livermore accounted for $50 million in weapons spending last year all of which was sponsored by energy department funds.

Mike Ross also confirmed that half of Lawrence Livermore Lab's $250 million Department of Energy budget was spent on weapons research.

—by Keith Rogers

San Ramon's MBAssociates have their headquarters located on Bolinger Canyon Road. The multi-million dollar corporation is dedicated to weapons research and technology. MBA occupies 70 acres of rolling hills and has over 100,000 square feet of administrative, engineering, test, and production facilities.

Council berated over Al pool

LIVERMORE — Springtown residents and Livermore Jaycees combined forces last night to review efforts of cleaning up the "safety hazards" in the old Athletics International pool.

Residents and council candidates took their turns at the podium berating the council members for lack of action on the abandoned pool over the last two years.

At one point City Attorney Gary

Reiners said that it would cost approximately $8-10,000 to remove or fence in the pool. However, he said that if the city took any kind of action it would become liable for any injuries or accidents.

"It's a no-win situation. A fence that would withstand a determined group of vandals has not been made and once we take a step to remedy-ing the situation, we would become liable," Reiners said. "Now we have no liability."

Several residents protested that a child's life is worth more than the cost of remedying the situation. Reiners replied that the city could do nothing because of a series of stay orders by the bankruptcy attorneys in Honolulu.

Commission nixes ambulance firm

PLEASANTON — A fourth attempt made during the past eight months by the Tri-Cities Ambulance Company to move back to this city has failed.

Planning Commissioners last night denied, 3-2, the company's application for a home occupation permit to operate a three-member crew and one ambulance out of a house at 4195 Francisco Street, at the corner of Santa Rita Road.

Commissioners Bob Butler and Dave Shepherd dissented, calling the residence as good a location as can be found and maintaining the city has an obligation to locate the crew within its boundaries.

However, Commissioners Bill Jamieson, Walt Wood, and Gregg Doherty agreed with most of the approximately 50 residents present that a commercial business should not be allowed in a residential neighborhood.

The ambulance crew moved to Livermore early in the fall, after being evicted from their Val Vista home and encountering neighborhood opposition in other attempts to move into the city's residential areas.

Company management began looking again for a residence in town when the city manager complained that the company was close to breaching its contract.

That contract states the ambulance response time should be less than 10 minutes on 90 per cent of its calls.

Ellsberg

Neutron bomb debate at Lab?

LIVERMORE — "Pentagon Papers" celebrity Daniel Ellsberg may appear at Lawrence Livermore Laboratory soon to continue a debate over the merits of building the neutron bomb.

Ellsberg and LLL scientist Lowell Wood first debated the topic on KQED television in December, then had a two-hour discussion about it last month in Berkeley at the radiation lab's small college there known as "Strawberry College".

Ellsberg told The Times at a San Francisco party Saturday night that Wood has asked him to appear at the Lab's Department of Applied Science, which is operated by UC Davis and nicknamed "Teller Tech."

"They told me it would take them four hours to sweep the auditorium inside the rad lab," said Ellsberg, "so they prefer the Department of Applied Sciences for the discussion because it is not a security clearance area."

Ellsberg said he didn't have any specific date yet for the Livermore talk. Wood was on travel from the Lab yesterday and unavailable for comment.

In their debate last month in Berkeley, Ellsberg said that the neutron bomb could contribute greatly to nuclear proliferation and increase the odds of war. The fact that the bomb is designed to have a range from a half to three-quarters of a mile means that the military would not be very reluctant to use it in some situations.

"If nuclear weapons are too horrible to use, I'm of the conclusion we should have no more," he said.

Wood called the neutron bomb a "defensive weapon" and said it is designed to cut collateral damage with its relatively short range. Observing that the bomb was developed to counter conventional forces in Eastern Europe, he added that "any way to kill people is horrible."

"It's not a magic wand that will have a revolutionary effect on the nature of warfare," he added.

CETA program

Federal fund jobs: how we stack up here

The Valley appears to be getting its fair share of special CETA funding designed to alleviate unemployment, according to statistics from Alameda County's Department of Social Services.

CETA is the Comprehensive Employment Training Act, passed by Congress a few years ago. It funds government jobs which do not displace regular staff people and allows those governments to hire CETA-funded folks for up to a year.

After that it's hoped that the "on-the-job" training will help some of the CETA employees secure regular jobs with the government agency.

That philosophy has worked well in Alameda County where in the past up to 70 per cent were absorbed into government. That was before the program was expanded, though, and now the absorption rate is approximately 30 per cent.

Some cities administer their own CETA grants, but the Valley relies on Alameda County and shares a "CETA pool" with other small cities like Union City, Piedmont, Castro Valley, Albany, Newark and San Lorenzo.

The Valley has 34 per cent of the total population of that CETA pool (according to the 1970 census) and has 24.2 per cent of the CETA positions. But to say that the Valley doesn't get its fair share based on population is misleading because the unemployment rate is lower in the Valley.

CETA has a formula based on the percentages of unemployed in each city and that's how the CETA funding is divided up.

The Valley's share of the CETA money breaks down this way: Livermore, 13.6 per cent; Pleasanton, 7.8 per cent; and Dublin 2.8 per cent.

There are 173 Valley residents employed by CETA out of a total of 715 for the 24.2 per cent.

CETA classifies the toilers in four categories: professional; technical; secretarial and clerical; and laboring. Although no statistics are available on strictly white collar versus blue collar, the first category and some in the second category (engineers and social workers, for example) tend to have college degrees.

CETA is allowed to fund up to a third of the workers in the professional and administrative areas. In San Francisco there has been a flap over the high percentage of college graduates being employed by CETA.

Jarvis and teacher pay to collide

The related problems of the Jarvis initiative and teachers' salaries head the topics to be discussed at tonight's special meeting of the Livermore Valley Unified School District board.

Discussing Jarvis' Proposition 13 Saturday morning, the trustees chose not to make cuts to meet the potential loss of $10 million in tax revenues. Instead they and the district staff drafted a letter to the State Legislature opposing the initiative, adding the district might be unable to comply with state law regulating the firing of teachers if the measure passes June 6.

School districts are required to inform principals of possible layoffs or reassignment by March 1 and other certificated personnel by March 15. They are also forbidden to fire personnel unless there is a drop in district student attendance.

Trustee Jim Davis noted Saturday this could make Prop. 13 legally incompatible with existing statutes because the proposed tax limit would take effect July 1 and immediately slash the funds teacher salaries. With or without Jarvis, the district must negotiate a new teacher contract this year and a public hearing has been scheduled tonight to air the contract proposal submitted by the Livermore Education Association Feb. 7.

Weather

Chance of rain this morning and rain likely through tonight. Also a chance of showers tomorrow. Little temperature change. Highs in the upper 50's and 60's, lows in the 40's. Light winds becoming southerly 10 to 20 mph today.

Prices go up

Consumer prices rose 0.8 percent in January after just a 0.4 percent hike in each of the three previous months.

What's more, the buying power of American workers plummeted by the largest amount since the Labor Department began keeping statistics in 1964.

Changing tax laws, higher Social Security taxes and a reduction in working hours were blamed.

Candidates on display

City Council candidates have been invited to appear before a general membership meeting of the Pleasanton Chamber of Commerce at 12 noon at Haps Restaurant, 122 W. Neal St., in Pleasanton.

The meeting will be in the Patio Room and is open to the public. Lunch will be served promptly at noon to give each candidate as much time as possible to present views on their candidacy.

The public is welcome at all Chamber of Commerce luncheons.

Warrant issued for suspect

LIVERMORE — Police have issued an arrest warrant for a 34-year-old man in connection with the Feb. 20 armed robbery of Mario's Delicatessen at 160 South Livermore Ave.

The warrant names John Richard Strange as a suspect in the robbery and asks for his return from Prescott, Ariz., where he is currently in police custody for investigation in another case.

A witness to the robbery took down the license number of a car fleeing from the scene moments after the robbery, police said. The car was traced back to the suspect through a car rental agency, a police spokesman said.

Police intend to question Strange about other recent robberies in Livermore and Pleasanton, the spokesman added, and said Stockton police want to question him about recent robberies there.

LIVERMORE — Two men who allegedly fought with police following the issuance of a traffic citation early Sunday were arrested on suspicion of assault and battery on police officers.

Franklin Harvey Deman, 30, and Timothy Dale Roberts, 19, both of 1405 Janis Court, were booked on the complaint shortly after midnight Saturday, police said.

According to police reports, officers were dispatched to the area of Rincon and Delaware streets on a complaint of reckless driving. A citizen pointed out the suspect vehicle and police pursued it to a Janis Court driveway, where a citation was issued to Deman.

Deman was complaining about the citation when his roommate, Roberts, came out of the house and allegedly threatened Officer John Brady and Officer Jeff Getz. Roberts was placed under arrest for interfering with police when a struggle broke out. Roberts was maced but knocked the spray can into the face of Getz, causing a small cut below his right eye.

Deman and Brady were fighting when they fell against the front door and into the house. Roberts then ordered his dog to attack the officers, police said. Brady was bitten on the left calf.

A right cross from Brady sent Deman tumbling down several stairs where he was handcuffed. Both men were arrested and booked at city jail.

LIVERMORE — A man found bleeding from head wounds in a Madeira Way driveway late Friday told police he had been beaten by two men armed with a tire iron, police reported.

The 25-year-old Broadmoor Court resident sustained deep cuts to his head but refused to give police pertinent details. He refused treatment at Valley Memorial Hospital. There are no suspects.

PLEASANTON — A man seated in a car parked near Foothill High School exposed himself to two 15-year-old girls Friday afternoon, police reported.

The two students were walking through the parking lot on the way home when the incident occurred. The man drove southbound on Muirwood Drive.

The suspect is described as a white male about 30, with shoulder length black hair and brown eyes.

LIVERMORE — An 18-year-old man arrested on suspicion of vandalism after police watched him breaking windows on a parked car. He kicked out the side window to the patrol car in which he was placed, police reported.

Officers said the suspect was beating on the windows of a car parked on Wall Street about 11 p.m. Friday. Upon spotting police, the suspect walked up to officers, uttered two words and then ran a short distance before officers tackled him.

While handcuffed and in the patrol car, the suspect kicked out the rear driver's side window, police said. Booked on suspicion of vandalism, resisting police and being drunk in public was Michael Eugene Minyard, 18, of 832 Wall St.

PLEASANTON — Burglars entered an unlocked Tanglewood Court residence Friday and stole an estimated $2,400 in valuables, police reported.

A witness told police he saw two men drive up to the home. One man walked inside while the other remained outside, apparently as a lookout.

Missing are several items of jewelry and camera equipment. An investigation into the burglary is continuing.

PLEASANTON — More than $840 worth of valuables was taken from a San Luis Court residence Friday, police reported.

Burglars forced their way into the front door and took a gun, several documentary films, camera equipment and coins.

Police lifted fingerprints off the rear door, which they believe was the point of exit. The investigation is continuing.

LIVERMORE — A Dakota Court resident returned home from a shopping trip Sunday evening to find three youths burglarizing his garage, police reported.

The resident told police he spotted one youth standing near his house who began running as he approached. He pulled into the driveway and saw two youths in his garage, one holding a backpack that had been stored there.

Tax relief: key vote today

SACRAMENTO — An amendment proposing to cut property taxes 30 percent annually is expected to be voted on today by the Assembly Ways and Means Committee.

If passed, the amendment will replace the controversial home-sales profits tax in the legislature's property tax reform bill SB 1, Assemblyman Dan Boatwright, D-Concord, said Monday.

Boatwright, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, said it is possible the tax cut could continue beyond 1982 if the current economic trends continue. It would be funded out of the state's $3 billion surplus.

And if the economy improves, the property tax cut could go as high as 40 percent in later years, he added.

At the end of the five year period, the state could have anywhere from a $295 million deficit to a $2 billion surplus, according to various estimates that were coming across Boatwright's desk Monday.

If there is a deficit, Boatwright warned, the state will have to increase taxes again.

The proposed amendment, a compromise hammered out over the weekend by Boatwright and Assembly Speaker Leo McCarthy, D-San Francisco, is intended as the legislature's answer to the Jarvis tax initiative which will appear on the June ballot as Prop. 13.

Jarvis, if approved, would limit property taxes to 1 percent of market value and take away an estimated $7 billion a year in local revenue.

The controversial 5 percent profits tax was proposed by Sen. Peter Behr, R-Tiburon, author of SB 1, to fund a 40 percent property tax cut.

But Boatwright said the voters would look at the bill and see only a new tax, adding more fuel to the Jarvis campaign.

He said he stalled any action on the bill last week in his committee while he waited for the pressure to mount. Finally it did, and he went to McCarthy saying he couldn't support the bill as it was written.

Behr was persuaded to relent on the profits tax and that cleared the way for the amendment which will be considered Tuesday.

In addition to the 30 percent property tax cut for single family homeowners, the proposed amendment doubles the renter's credit to 75, increases the senior citizen homeowners' credit from $5,000 to $13,000.

All county welfare costs would be met by the state, Boatwright added.

Fair share of jobs

Alameda County didn't have the percentage breakdown of work categories for Valley CETA jobs only, but officials did supply data on the percentage in each category which each local government including CETA employees from outside the Valley.

Of the south county's clerical and secretarial positions, 16.1 per cent are in Valley governments. Of the technicals, it's 14.9 per cent. Among professionals, 18.5 per cent, and labor, 19.1 per cent.

In Livermore, the breakdown is professional, 9.2 per cent; labor, 12.6 per cent; clerical, 11.6 per cent, and technical, 5.9 per cent.

In Pleasanton the figures are: clerical, 2.1 per cent; technical, 6.9 per cent; professional, 4.6 per cent; and labor, 4.9 per cent.

Dublin's data: clerical, 2.5 per cent; technical, 2 per cent; professional, 4.6 per cent; and labor, 1.6 per cent.

Bigfoot loose in Florida?

VENICE, Fla. (AP) — As if Florida didn't have enough problems fending off alligators, armadillos, walking catfish and snow birds cluttering up the citrus groves with condominiums, a fellow down here is convinced the Sunshine State is being invaded by Bigfoot.

That's what he said, Bigfoot.

We always thought Bigfoot was California's exclusive answer to Yeti, the Abominable Snowman, something you might expect to find tip-toeing through the redwoods or stomping around the San Andreas fault with a surf board on his back. Or maybe terrorizing the movie colony by pounding on his chest and putting his big foot into everything, like the love child of Godzilla and Otto Preminger.

Not so, according to Mike Corradino, a veteran newspaperman who also happens to be a respected authority on primates, which is the word scientists use for monkeys so they don't get mistaken for or-gan-grinders and circus performers.

According to Mike, who is founder and curator of the Florida Monkey Sanctuary, in addition to being the official monkey catcher of Sarasota County, there have been "hundreds of sightings of Bigfoot in these parts." In fact, from the log he has kept for the past two years, "Florida ranks second only to California in Bigfoot sightings."

Around here, the elusive anthropoid, or whatever, is called a "skunk ape" and to those who have seen it or him or her, "it's more real than a UFO."

Dublin library gets it in gear

DUBLIN — The Alameda County/Dublin Library Corporation approved a slate of agenda items last night that brings the dream of a new Dublin Public Library closer to reality.

The corporation directors met and in the existing Dublin Public Library.

Item one involved approval of the official statement.

This statement acts as a bond - selling document that is distributed to prospective bond buyers, according to Jerry Burke, He is secretary to the library board.

The construction contract was awarded to low bidder S.J. Amoroso of Oakland. Amoroso submitted a bid for $868,600.

Burke reported the architect's estimated figure was $922,000.

The corporation president Charles Ladner said the board was now in a position to inform Amoroso of their "intent" as soon as an acceptable bond sale was arranged.

Amoroso will get the go-ahead to start building the new library as soon as he receives official notice.

Groundbreaking is proposed for mid-April. The property is located on Amador Valley Boulevard opposite Starward and Donohue drives. An estimated completion date is set for January, 1979.

Notice to sell bonds was also approved last night. March 21, 1978, is the date set for the corporation to present its formal bond bid to the Alameda County Board of Supervisors for final approval. The amount of the bonds is set at $1,075,000.

Leases pertaining to the library site and facility were also approved last night.

The new library is proposed to be 14,600 square feet. The existing library has 6,200 square feet.

According to Virginia Bennett, head librarian, the library's inventory rose by approximately 400 books a month and some 2,000 books are in storage awaiting the new library's completion.

Prices up, buying power way down

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumer prices rose sharply in January and the average worker's buying power declined by the largest amount on record, the Labor Department said Monday.

The price index for all urban consumers climbed 0.8 percent in January after rising 0.4 percent in each of the past three months. If averaged out over the entire year, the January increase would lead to an inflation rate of nearly 10 percent.

The purchasing power of the average worker declined 3 percent in January, the biggest drop since the department began keeping records in 1964.

The decline in real spendable earnings was attributed to higher Social Security taxes, fewer hours worked, changes in the tax laws and rising consumer prices.

Two thirds of the higher prices were caused by increases of 1.2 percent for food and beverages and 0.8 percent for housing, the department said. Transportation was up 0.6 percent, medical care 0.8 percent and clothing 0.3 percent.

The reports were called "cause for concern" by Julius Shiskin, commissioner of labor statistics.

White House officials said, however, two of the increases were only one-time contributors to inflation. They were rises in the minimum wage, which drove up some prices for services and Social Security taxes.

"It is not seen as a basic change in the underlying 6 to 6.5 percent inflation rate that we felt was accurate even when the monthly increases were lower," said White House Press Secretary Jody Powell.

Shiskin said some of the increases were caused by short supplies during the severe winter. But he said inflation may be worsening because price increases have been showing up at wholesale levels also.

Among grocery store foods, meat prices advanced 2.7 percent, the biggest contributor. Poultry, eggs and fresh fruit and vegetable prices also showed large increases, partly because supplies were restricted by adverse weather conditions, the department said.

Sugar prices went up because of new import fees, but coffee prices continued to decline.

The report said costs of home ownership went up 1 percent as a result of higher prices for houses, home maintenance, repairs and mortgage interest. Rents were up 0.6 percent, while housekeeping services rose 1.1

percent, partly because of the federal minimum wage increase, the department said.

The Labor Department overhauled its way of figuring statistics in the January report, covering 80 percent of the urban population, instead of the 40 percent checked in the old survey.

The Consumer Price Index for all urban consumers, the new survey, stands at 187.2, meaning that products that consumers bought for $100 in 1967 now cost $187.20. The index for urban wage earners and clerical workers, representing 40 percent of the population, is 187.1. Rural stores are not surveyed.

Real spendable earnings per week declined 3 percent from $95.91 to $92.30 in 1967 dollars. The largest previous drop was a 1.6 percent decline in August 1973.

Community

Crowd due at council

PLEASANTON — City council chambers are expected to be crowded tomorrow evening when elected officials consider Robert Myers' application to build a 119-unit retirement facility east of Pleasanton School near Las Lomitas Drive.

Council meets at 8 p.m. at 30 West Angela Street to consider several zoning matters, the Jarvis/Gann tax initiative, civic center expansion plans and Main Street traffic signals.

Myers is appealing an earlier planning commission ruling which denied his application to rezone 12.7 acres and his deluxe retirement home development plan.

Planning staff is recommending council approve the rezoning, but deny the development plan.

Vintage Hills residents are vigorously opposing Myers' plan to build on the rolling hills next to their homes. Petitions including 90 signatures will be presented to council, along with the staff report tomorrow.

Spring recreation planned

Preparations have begun for the spring program of activities sponsored by the Livermore Area Recreation and Park District that begin April 10.

Registration nights are set for Tuesday, March 28 for pre-school activities and Thursday, March 30, for general activities. Registrations will be held at the recreation center, 8th and H Sts.

Jean Tucker thinks about a new home for her portable hospital.

Hospital in boxes looks for a home

LIVERMORE — Have portable hospital, need a new "home." That could be the slogan of Jean Tucker, emergency services assistant.

Tucker has the job of finding a place to store the 200-bed packaged disaster hospital that the city purchased from the state in 1973.

The hospital is equipped with all the necessities, surgical supplies, blankets, sheets, pillows, cots and lights. But no pharmaceutical supplies.

Tucker said the medicines would be too difficult to store and keep up to date. But hopefully, in an emergency, the PDH could be set up in a school near the hospital, she said. The portable hospital would fill the need in a medical crisis when all local hospital facilities were overloaded. Or could be used, without medical equipment, for perhaps an evacuation situation.

The city keeps two emergency generators in top working condition at the corp yard, to be used with the emergency equipment.

The "budding" young ladies will not only be reaching for the Maid of Pleasanton crown, but a red rose! The "red" rose will play a special part in this year's festivities.

The young "seedling" who displays to the judges her "flourishing" potential as a representative of the city of Pleasanton, will be the beautiful "bouquet" who will represent Pleasanton for the year 1978!

Tickets for this leisure Sunday afternoon event at Castlewood County Club on May 21, will be $7.50 per person and may be obtained from the finalist or the Pleasanton Chamber of Commerce.

How to Pick Sleepers in Rare Plates

NORTHBROOK, Ill. — The director of a worldwide art exchange in this Chicago suburb has announced a new, easy way to start collecting rare porcelain plates with high resale potential.

According to Roderick MacArthur, director of the Bradford Exchange, one exceptional plate priced at $25 in 1965 now brings $1,750, and another selling at $9.75 in 1969 now sells for $440.

Mr. MacArthur says, "Since many plates do not increase in value, amateurs often make serious mistakes." He offers a free report on what to look for, when to buy, what to pay and much more. It even includes special offers on eagerly-sought collector plates at modest cost.

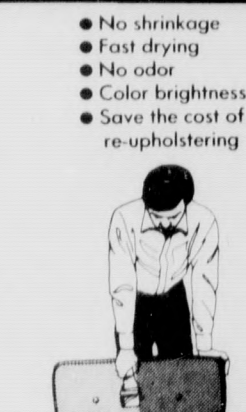

To get your free report with no obligation, just send your name, address, and zip code to the Bradford Exchange, 13909 Bradford Place, Northbrook, Illinois 60062. A postcard will do. To be sure of receiving your free copy, mail your request before Saturday of next week.

No busing aid mandated

By RICHARD CARELLI
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court, denying an appeal from Kentucky, said in effect Monday that the federal government does not have to help pay the costs of court-ordered busing to achieve racially desegregated public schools.

The justices rejected without comment an appeal by Kentucky Gov. Julian M. Carroll seeking permission to ask for federal help in paying for busing in the Louisville area, one of hundreds of school districts across the nation carrying out court-ordered busing.

The court's action bars, at least for now, any hope other state and local school districts may have had to get such federal help.

A racial desegregation plan in effect since 1975 for schools in Louisville and surrounding Jefferson County, Ky., has made necessary the daily busing of some 23,000 students.

"The drain on state and local funds ... is quite real and devastating," Carroll's appeal said.

The governor had challenged the constitutionality of three federal laws prohibiting federal funding of busing for desegregation. A federal judge in Louisville and a federal appeals court already had upheld the laws.

In urging the court to turn down Kentucky's argument, the Carter administration argued that the federal government is under no obligation to help defray desegregation costs.

es to design).

Sunol gets planning funds

SUNOL—A school site planning committee at Sunol Glen School has received $1,581 in planning funds from the state to organize a School Improvement Program that would commence January of 1979.

An 18-member committee, composed of Superintendent-Principal George Bury, nine parents, six teachers and two teacher aides have started work toward expanding what has been the Early Childhood Education program for grades K-3 to all students kindergarten through eighth grade at Sunol Glen.

The panel has had three meetings to date, the first last November when submitting the grant application. Betty Harris has been elected chairperson to serve for one year.

The group has already discussed levels of competency for the program.

When a plan is completed, Bury will submit it to the school board for action. It then goes to the state Department of Education in Sacramento.

The committee would then be eligible to receive operation funding.

Bury has also disclosed that the projected enrollment for September of this year is 135. Present enrollment is 142. The former figure, if it holds, would represent the lowest enrollment at Sunol Glen in many years.

A POET ON A WINGED HORSE

"Filtering reality through your emotions and scarfing it back out again," is what poets do, according to Ron McNicoll, journalist-poet-teacher, who was holding poetry workshops at Pleasanton's Cultural Arts Centers recently.

Ron, whose poetry is surrealistic, confides that to write poetry, there are tricks one may learn, "magicians' secrets."

And he says "there's a gestalt that goes on, where the whole is greater than the sum of its parts, and in a good poem, that's what happens. The reader is lifted up," says the poet, "greater than just by the impact of the words."

There are devices poets use, says Ron, to make their writing poetry instead of prose. "Poetry leaps up," Ron explains, "to a whole other level of awareness, which prose can't do."

"Prose is more like a movie film," he lyricizes. "It isn't always literal, it can get you into peoples' heads, or show a landscape, but it doesn't ask you to leap. The best poetry does..."

He goes on to explain that he thinks "Poetry can be almost religious. It takes you in Ezekiel's fiery chariot... many emotions over a short space," and "Poetry is more into eternal consciousness, going beyond time."

The experienced poet began his writing in St. Thomas College in St. Paul, Minnesota, where he majored in English, with the intention of teaching, and minoring in journalism. But it was during the 50's and the Beatnik era, a time of poetic revival and poetry leaped up at Ron.

He liked the compression of poetry, liked the fact that you could say a lot in just a few words. He found that poetry could convey different levels of meaning all at the same time.

Beginning with witticisms, jokes, punning and word games, Ron progressed to ways of getting his emotions out. "Getting their feelings out" is basically what poets do, says Ron. In the following poem, he gets his feelings out.

Little Irving Pauses at the Bo Tree

Only Irish goblins/ could understand/ the obligation/to drink,/ day in,/ day out./
Soon/ my liver/ will be pale green./
Spikes will stick/ from my forehead./
Here,/ beneath the Bo tree,/ a pile of ashes tells me/
I'm in the wrong world,/ go home.

Allen Tate, one of the founders of "The New Criticism" of the 20's, and a man whom Ron considers a "fine poet," with a lot of insight into poetry, was one of Ron's teachers at the University of Minnesota Graduate School.

He believes his awareness of poetry was raised by another class he took from James Wright, "one of the best poets in America." Wright read many of his own poems and put them into historical context.

Later, Ron came to the West Coast and was influenced further by "Views of Jeopardy," a book by Jack Gilbert.

Here, in the Valley, Pete Winslow of the Independent newspaper in Livermore hired Ron as a journalist "primarily because I was a poet, and introduced me to surrealism," which he says, "changed my head around." He became aware of getting into different levels of reality in a poem.

He subsequently published a book of his poems, "Sail On Silvery Moon," available locally at Sage Book Store in Pleasanton.

Ron tells us that Pegasus, the winged horse, is the traditional symbol of poetry, and as with the winged horse, a poem's success can be measured, says Ron, by "how far it gets off the ground."

YWCA's rap group

Bridging the generation gap

Lots of women will say that being a teenager was perhaps the most difficult time in their entire life.

Here in the Valley, Shelley Roselyn and Randi Gottlieb are trying to make their own self."

Mothers, on the other hand, are faced with problems about boys, clothes, going out, sibling rivalry and — the big question discipline she says.

It's a crucial period in parent-child relationships that time a bit easier, for both girls — and their mothers.

The two are running a mother-daughter rap group, sponsored by the YWCA, to help teenage girls between 12 and 15, and their mothers gain a little more understanding about their roles, their problems and feelings.

"As girls get to be that in-between age," says Gottlieb, "relationships between mother and daughter can get really difficult. We try to bridge the gap."

It's a crucial period in parent-child relationships, Roselyn says, because "the daughters are growing away" from the mothers and "trying to become

The group was started, Gottlieb says, one year ago as the offshoot of a teen rap group for girls in Pleasanton schools.

The groups, which are run at Fredrickson, Harvest Park and Pleasanton Elementary schools, are funded from revenue sharing funds, and public safety funds for delinquency prevention.

"The delinquency rate soars at 15 and 16," says Roselyn. "We're trying to prevent it. There's certain factors we can work on, like self-esteem." Teens without that esteem, she says, may turn to drugs, for example, to solve their problems. The YWCA is trying to work with girls, teaching them to express emotions and feelings at an early age, "instead of going through a lot of episodes that end up in pregnancy a year down the road."

Both groups, in which participants learn to "express emotion and solidarity," also teach girls about "self-esteem — how she feels about herself." Openness, Gottlieb adds, is important, as is "the basis of confidentiality" that is new to the girls in that age.

"We go through a couple of weeks when we just build trust," Gottlieb says. "Teachers really support us at the schools for the most part," she adds.

In the mother-daughter groups, there are many issues to be dealt with, especially that parent and child "learn to be supportive of each other as women," Roselyn says. That may be difficult at times, for example when a mother "has to see that her daughter is going through lots of different transitions. She may look at her child and say, 'You're going to be able to do all the things I never did.' That's frightening."

Mothers and daughters in the group learn to face their feelings and emotions, the two group leaders say, with the help of games, talks and role-playing which "establishes a feeling of support" in the group. "We try to present different models and options" to the girls, says Gottlieb. And with their mothers in the group, she says, "there's a lot of caring and warmth."

Presently, there's only one mother-daughter rap group in the Valley, sponsored by the YWCA. The group costs nothing to enter (participants are encouraged to join the Y), and more groups may be started in the future.

Dr. Joyce Brothers

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: We live in a sophisticated, well-to-do suburb where kids seem to be sexually precocious. We moved here from a much more protective atmosphere and I'm afraid my children don't know what's going on. I'm especially worried because I'm aware, for reasons I won't go into in this letter, that there's some homosexual activity at their school. I've never discussed homosexuality with them because I thought it was better left unsaid, and I felt they'd never come in contact with it anyway. Now, I'm not so sure. Do you feel I'm right in ignoring this aspect of sex? — N.C.

DEAR N.C.: Homosexuality exists everywhere in the world and it has existed for centuries. It is a fact of life and it seems to me it should be discussed as honestly and openly as any other form of sex. Avoiding the subject tends to make it mysterious, and homosexuality may even take on the glamour of the forbidden.

Since homosexuality often begins to manifest itself in adolescence, it should not be neglected as a topic for discussion in sex education. Parents and teachers should be careful that it isn't presented in such a way that a youngster who has a crush on someone of his own sex, or who has had a homosexual experience, will feel that this dooms him to a life limited to homosexual relationships. Homosexuality can impose a terrible guilt and shame on young people. This can be so serious that it may even lead to suicide.

Youngsters should understand that most people feel attracted to members of their own sex at some time in their lives and that transient homosexual inclinations are present in all human beings. All youngsters should be alert to the possibility of crushes and should know that they can come to their parents if they're bewildered.

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: I have two brothers who are compulsive eaters. I had this problem too and still would have if I didn't work at it almost every moment. My cousins are alcoholics. I don't understand what makes compulsive eaters and drinkers. I want to know because I don't want my children to grow up with problems in these areas if I can possibly avoid it. Can you give me hints on the subject? — O.M.

DEAR O.M.: Personally, I feel that compulsive eating and compulsive drinking, or alcoholism, do not necessarily arise from a common cause. No one knows the exact cause of alcoholism, but there does seem to be a tendency for it to run in families.

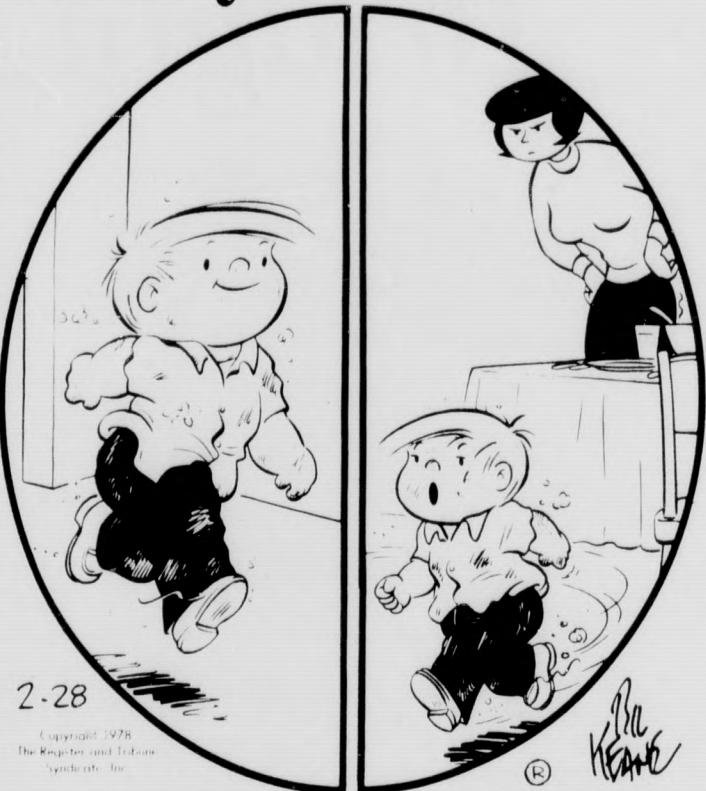

The compulsion to eat and sometimes the compulsion to drink stem from disturbances in the early relationship between the child and his mother. The mother's attitudes about food and feeding habits may make the child feel anxious and as if the mother didn't love or accept him unless he ate everything she wished him to eat. The mother who shows excessive concern about her child's nutrition or who isn't content unless the child is plump or overweight is setting the stage for problems.

Food is often seen as the answer to emotional problems. The compulsive eater is apt to reach for food anytime he's nervous, lonely, depressed, or feels the need of reassurance. The compulsive eater attempts to cope with all his problems of frustration and anger by eating large quantities of food.

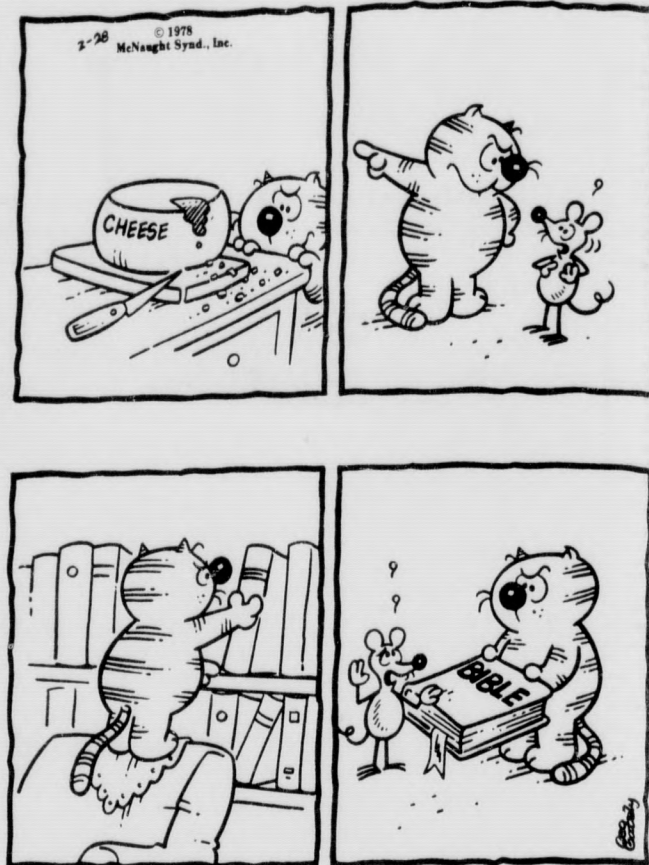

Compulsive eaters or drinkers suffer from insecurity and try to cope with emotional stress by putting something in their mouth. They tend to rationalize behavior, but they can be helped if they wish.

Dr. Lamb

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Why are there so many different kinds of blood pressure pills on the market? Everyone I talk to names a different kind. My husband is taking Regroton and I am taking Aldactazide. What's the difference? What's the best blood pressure pill on the market?

The Aldactazide pill and Regroton pill make you urinate a lot. Can this harm me if I am prone to phlebitis or varicose veins? Please help. I am so confused.

DEAR READER — The old saying that one man's meat is another man's poison certainly applies to all medicines and particularly the medicines used to treat high blood pressure.

There is no one pill that is better than others. You have to decide what is the best combination on an individual basis. Why? Because there are different levels of blood pressure, different causes and individual responses to the medicines involved.

Let me give you an illustration. Many of the combination medicines contain serasil, (Reserpine) in fact Regroton does. Patients who have a tendency to develop a depression should not be given any of these medicines even though its action in controlling blood pressure is good.

Many patients with lower levels of blood pressure respond well to a treatment program designed to eliminate excess body fat. A good weight-reducing regime, often accompanied with sensible moderate exercise, may enable these people to have a normal blood pressure without taking any medicines at all. Restriction of dietary salt may help in others.

If changes in life style are not sufficient and the blood pressure is high enough to warrant it, the doctor may choose to give the patients one of the diuretics that causes the kidneys to flush out salt and water. That is what Aldactazide is and Regroton also contains a diuretic along with the Reserpine.

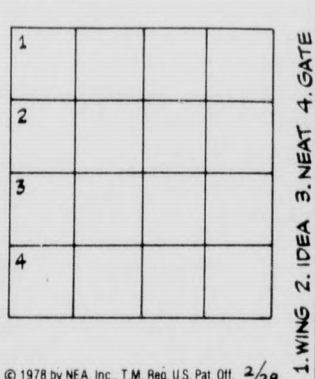

There are several diuretics. Some tend to increase the excretion of sodium salt and water while preventing the loss of potassium, while others cause a loss of both. Some are stronger than others and they have different sites of action in the body.

Here is a hand that is a cinch with correct play and likely to fail miserably if declarer doesn't remember to get a count before attacking the club suit.

The defense starts with three rounds of diamonds. Declarer ruffs the third lead to force West to ruff also if he holds four trumps. West who has discarded a heart on the second diamond overruffs and leads a heart to South's king.

South leads a trump to dummy's king and a second one back to his ace. Both opponents follow and at this point a careless declarer will start the clubs.

A careful declarer will cash the ace of hearts first. Then he will lead the jack of clubs. West will cover whereupon our careful player will lead and ruff dummy's last heart.

When East follows, South will know that East held two spades, three hearts, seven diamonds and just that one little club he has already played. It will be a simple matter to take the deep sea finesse against West's 9-8 and avoid a club loser.

Finley awaits dogfight after A's sale

Giants stretch it out

Pitchers Rob Dressler (25) and John Montefusco (26) find out how much weight will have to go while performing stretching exercises Monday as Spring Training opened up at the San Francisco Giants' Casa Grande, Arizona camp.

OAKLAND — Charlie Finley has another offer for his Oakland A's — $10.5 million from a six-person syndicate that wants to keep the woebegone club in Oakland, published reports said today.

The San Francisco Examiner quoted a "reliable source" on the size of the offer and that two of the six members of the group are big names in the entertainment world.

"I'm not at liberty to bandy about names or dollar figures, but I most definitely have an offer from a group that wants the A's and wants them in Oakland," Finley was quoted as saying from his Chicago apartment.

"They not only are wearing the big hats, they've all got the cattle. Either I'm going to accept their offer or see the A's go to Denver eventually," he was quoted as saying.

"And if I do accept their offer, it's going to be dog eat dog in the (San Francisco) Bay area," Finley said. He said he met with a representative of the group in Chicago last week and talked with him again Sunday.

An offer by which Finley would have sold the franchise to Denver oilman Marvin Davis for $12.5 million fell through last month.

According to the Examiner, the new offer comes from a syndicate that includes a famous actor, a star television actress, two theater tycoons, a prominent lawyer and a partner in a media conglomerate. Two have ties to the Bay area and all are from California, according to the paper.

But it said the group wasn't one made up of black showbusiness people that had expressed an earlier interest in the club.

"They have the big bucks and the know-how to make it in Oakland," a source was quoted as saying of the group. "Without question, they want the A's because they believe the Giants will move at the end of the year."

The San Francisco Giants, who play across the bay at Candlestick Park, are considered attendance rivals with the A's.

Faltering attendance at Candlestick Park has led to speculation that the Giants may be sold to outside interests and moved from the city. But Giants owner Bob Lurie and San Francisco Mayor George Moscone deny that is a possibility.

Poll goes full circle

Kentucky on top

After a two-week absence, the University of Kentucky has regained the top position in The Associated Press college basketball poll.

The rankings have come full circle in the last month. Three weeks ago Kentucky was No. 1, but a loss at Louisiana State opened the door for Arkansas to move to the top.

Arkansas promptly lost to Houston, which allowed defending NCAA champion Marquette to take the position of king of the hill for the week.

But that was equally shortlived. The Warriors lost to Notre Dame, and the Wildcats have again vaulted to the top.

Kentucky, No. 2 a week ago, received 39 of the 55 first-place votes and 1,044 points. The Wildcats, 22-2, defeated Alabama and Tennessee during the week to wrap up the Southeastern Conference title.

UCLA, also 22-2, moved up a notch to second, receiving 13 first-place votes and 964 points. The Bruins demolished Oregon State and Oregon to remain undefeated in Pacific-8 Conference play.

Marquette dropped to third after its nationally televised loss to the Irish. The Warriors, 22-3, received one first-place vote and 819 points.

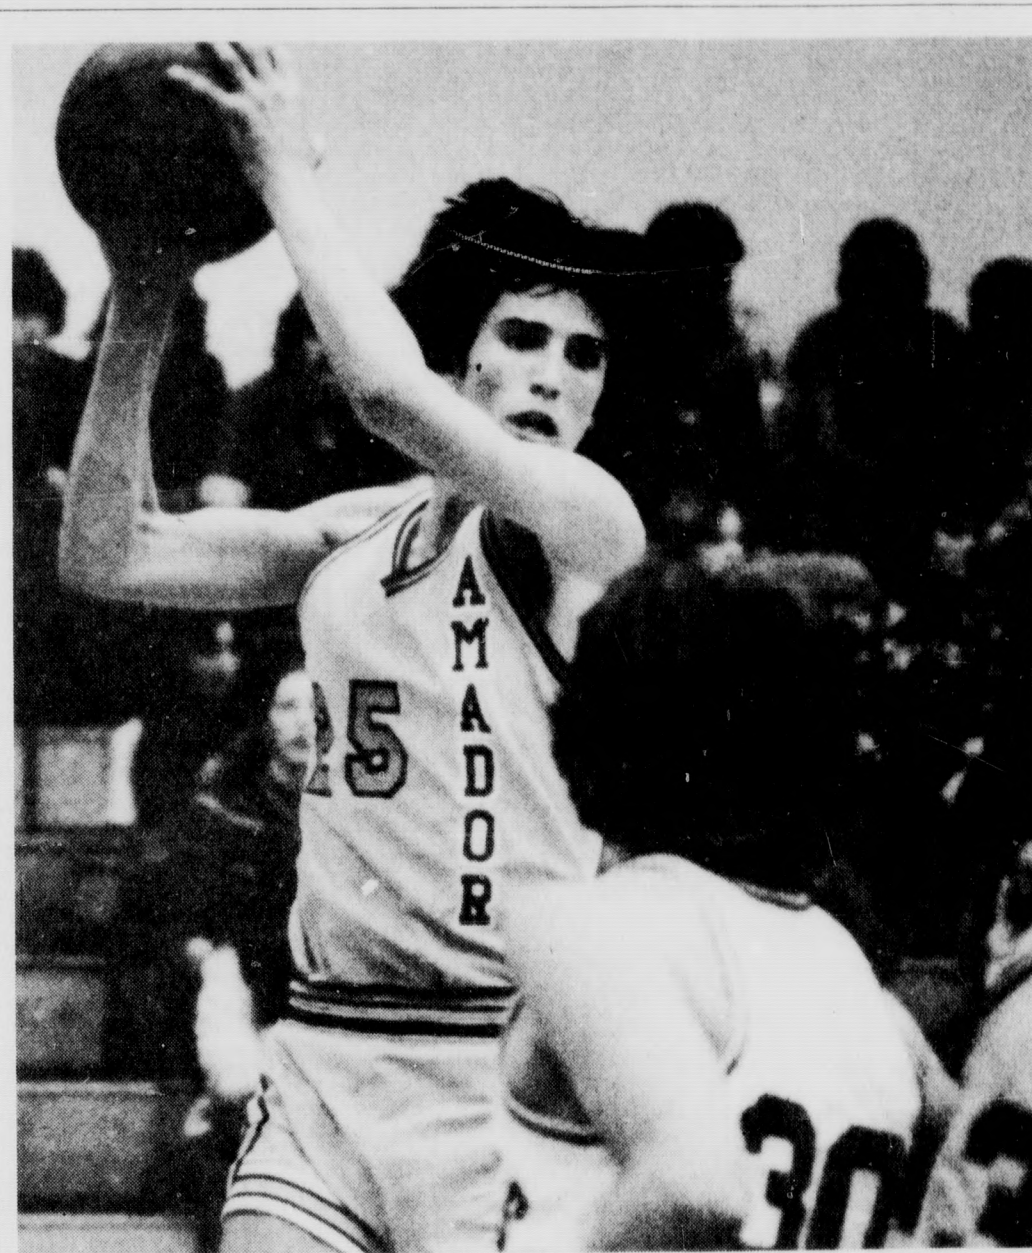

Arkansas, 27-2, won twice and remained in fourth place, collecting 720 points. Kansas, 23-3, moved up one position to fifth with 616 points. The Jayhawks defeated Colorado in its only action of the week.

DePaul, 23-2, stayed at No. 6. The Blue Demons collected two first-place votes and 579 points. Notre Dame, 19-5, jumped two spots to No. 7. The Irish received 485 points. New Mexico dropped from fifth to eighth after a 95-92 loss at Utah. The Lobos, 22-3, received 395 points.

Michigan State, 21-4, with 378 points, moved up one spot to ninth. North Carolina rounds out the Top Ten, dropping two positions after a loss to North Carolina State. The Tar Heels, 23-6, collected 335 points.

The Second Ten is headed by Florida State, followed by Texas, Illinois State, Syracuse, Duke, Detroit, Georgetown, D.C., Providence, Utah and Louisville. Utah is the only newcomer to the Top Twenty, replacing Minnesota.

Darren Pembroke and Amador face Bishop O'Dowd first

Don guys, gals await NCS tilts

It may look like a repeat of an old movie, but Amador Valley High's basketball teams have a double bill in store Thursday night when the girls' and boys' varsity squads open play in the North Coast Section 3-A Basketball Championships at Cal State Hayward.

Both teams played in the tournament last year, with the girls reaching the finals before bowing to Pittsburg and the guys dropping a tough three-point loss to Berkeley on opening night.

The tournament begins tomorrow night with four games on tap. In the girls bracket, defending champion Pittsburg (25-1) opens against Tennyson (16-7) at 4 p.m. and El Cerrito (17-3) meets Drake (21-4) at 5:30. In the boys bracket, Pittsburg (24-4) and Mission San Jose (23-2) play at 7:00, while Berkeley (21-7) and Drake (25-6) vie at 8:30.

Thursday night, the East Bay Athletic League champion girls squad in Amador (20-2) meets Catholic Athletic League champion Carondelet (17-9) at 4 p.m. while Clayton Valley (22-5) and Kennedy of Fremont (18-5) tangle at 5:30.

Amador's boys (17-9) draw Catholic Athletic League champion Bishop O'Dowd (25-7) in their 7:00 first round game, while Novato (27-3) and Hayward Area champ Mt. Eden (23-5) square off in the final game at 8:30.

The boys' EBAL co-champion Dons, who defeated California High 53-42 Friday night to win the post-season playoffs and gain the NCS berth, have the task of facing up to two of the Bay Area's most highly touted players, 6-8 center Guy Williams and 6-4 forward Robby Beal of the CAL champ O'Dowd team.

Amador's girls, however, seem to be on the other end of the favorite's stick in their contest with Carondelet.

"That's fine," said coach Lottie Bain about her first-round opponents. "They know they have to work that much harder to win. We know we can beat them, and we have a tendency to slack off against teams below us. We're just going to have to keep a heads-up game."

The Dons, who are eyeing a possible second straight showdown with Pitt for the NCS title, will be fielding largely the same starting lineup they had a year ago.

Center Jayne Kuhns and forward Sheryl Withoft have been the catalysts the past two years for the Dons, and Carondelet coach Bob Kaliski is well aware of the Amador talents.

"I would definitely say they're favored to win," he Kaliski said. "I like the underdog role. I always have. We've got absolutely nothing to lose."

The Cougars, who are going through a rebuilding process but have senior 5-11 center Debbie Rasch keeping the threads together, have peaked just at the right time, according to Kaliski.

If underdog roles are indeed favorable, then the Amador boys have something to look forward to. Coach Skip Mohatt, whose Dons have made the post-season trip to either the Tournament of Champions or NCS for five years now, assumes the role capably.

"We've got some funny guys," Mohatt explained. "You don't have to give a good pep talk when you go up to play against a good team." The Dons have made a habit of playing some of Bay Area's top-rated teams point-for-point, but slacking against lesser-quality squads.

In the Amador Tournament last December, the Dons lost by only three points to then second-rated Castlemont. "The kids on varsity that were on jayvees last year had never even seen any guys like Castlemont before," Mohatt said.

Bishop O'Dowd coach Al Ferreira, whose club played in the Amador Tournament and knows the potential abilities of Amador, said, "I haven't seen them since then, but I'm sure they've improved. They had to really battle in their playoffs to get here."

The 25-7 record is deceiving for the Dragons. Four of the defeats have been by two points or less, while they have beaten Mt. Eden and gone 13-1 in the league with their only loss to St. Elizabeth.

Tomorrow — A deeper look into the Amador quests for NCS success.

Connors eyes large return Indoors

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — Jimmy Connors, $25,000 richer after Sunday's victory in Denver, would like to pad this week's paycheck with $38,000 from the U.S. National Indoor Championship.

So would 31 other players vying for the top money in the weeklong event at the Racquet Club.

And according to one early arrival, Harold Solomon, things will be tough from the start.

"A couple of years ago you could win the first couple of rounds no matter what happened unless you really played bad," said Solomon, who was paired against Poland's Wojtek Fibak in Monday's first round of the U.S. Indoor. "You'd usually play some guy ranked about 100th in the first round. Now you've got to be ready to play tennis from the first round on."

Solomon is ranked No. 13 in the world and Fibak is No. 14. Solomon is 3-0 against Fibak, but all three matches have been close. "I expect anything can happen," Solomon said, looking ahead to Monday night's match.

Connors, the tournament's No. 1 seed, is paired in Tuesday's first-round action with Dick Stockton. Stockton is off to a slow start this year because of chronic back problems, but he defeated Connors in the final of the U.S. Pro Indoor at Philadelphia 13 months ago.

Seeded behind Connors are three other Americans — Vitas Gerulaitis, Gottfried and Dibbs. Or-entes is fifth, followed by Ramirez, Sandy Mayer and Tanner.

Cauthen coming

Steve Cauthen, the teenager who set the sports and racing worlds ablaze with his dazzling exploits last year, will return to Golden Gate Fields Saturday to ride 0 Big Al in the $150,000 California Derby.

The 17-year-old jockey inherits the mount from Darrell McHargue, who has a prior commitment to ride in Florida.

Last year Cauthen rode Elmendorf's Make Amends in the California Derby but finished a disappointing last.

Cauthen, who became the first jockey in history whose mounts earned $6 million in one season, won two Eclipse Awards last year as the nation's top jockey and top apprentice. He currently is second in the Santa Anita standings behind McHargue.

0 Big Al has been second in three stakes this season and won the San Miguel. He was ninth in the El Camino at Bay Meadows last fall.

The California Derby will be headed by Gemini Dancer and Capt. Don, winner of the recent Gold Rush Stakes.

New job for Ted Baxter

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Let's see, of the "Mary Tyler Moore Show" gang, Ed Asner has a newspaper series, Gavin McLeod runs "Love Boat," Betty White's Hollywood series folded and Miss Moore has a new series afoot.

Which leaves Ted Knight unaccounted for, the guy who played silver-toned, vain, dense Ted Baxter, anchorman of that Minneapolis TV station. MTM's show ended last year with everyone fired but him.

Well, Knight now has his own CBS comedy series coming up, possibly in mid-April, he says. But he won't play anchorman Baxter. He'll run a Manhattan escort service, the escorts being lovely ladies.

Had it not been for his now-former agent, he says, he might have stayed on as Baxter at the Minneapolis station, in a spin-off series from Miss Moore's series of seven seasons.

Her production company, he said, "wanted me to do that. In fact, they offered me a handsome sum of retaining money."

He sighed a big sigh. "Unbeknownst to me, my agent had made a deal behind the door and I got upset when I heard about it. That's when I severed my relationship with the agent."

The deal and agent both gone, Knight left the MTM works — "though we're still good friends" — to form his own production company, which is making his new series, "The Ted Knight Show."

It's just as well things worked out they way they did, he added. "I felt it was time for me to be pushed out of the nest and strike off in new directions, and that's what happened."

The silver-haired actor, born in Terryville, Conn., served in combat in World War II, then studied acting at the Randall School of Fine Arts in Connecticut and the American Theater Wing in New York.

During, between and after his studies, he kept body and soul together with various TV and radio jobs, moved here in 1957, and worked both in TV dramas and in various radio and television commercials.

But he didn't hit national prominence until after he was called in 1969 to audition for the part of anchorman Baxter.

"I was the last one cast in the show," he said. "Every guy who'd had a microphone to his lips read for that part. I loved the character because it reminded me of very similar episodes in my life."

"I took the script home over the weekend, got a suntan, bought a blazer with insignia, gray flannel trousers, duck shoes, the whole thing. I nailed down the scene, then said, 'Who is this guy?'"

"I settled on someone who was a composite of four, five guys I've worked with. My onair character was one guy" — an ex-anchorman here — "whose name I fear to mention for fear of litigation."

Celica GT Liftback

That's why one of the first things we do when you visit one of our showrooms is to hand you the keys to the Toyota of your choice.

Challenge it. Decide for yourself whether it's your kind of machine. Only if your decision is yes will the salesman who accompanies you talk specifics with you.

Otherwise, just return the keys and be on your way. The fact that Toyota is America's best selling import doesn't necessarily mean one is for you.

But it sure improves the odds.

Capitol Keeping the middle course

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter won his job by commandeering the Democratic center and holding it against the efforts of rivals to depict him as too far right for the Democrats or too far left for the country.

He always scorned those labels, calling them little ideological boxes and saying that the voters resented them as much as he did.

Yet when Republicans took to calling him a liberal in Deep South disguise, Carter did some fine tuning of his image in order to stress his relatively conservative attitude on matters of budget and government management.

That kind of adjustment is easier made in theory than in action. For example, after a year in office, Carter has had to drop his campaign promise to balance the federal budget by the end of his current term. He hasn't said it won't happen, but he no longer promises that it will.

Now come two political scientists to suggest that Carter could face difficulties in a 1980 re-election campaign unless he can keep voters, especially Southern voters, convinced that he remains near the middle of the political road.

"He won by capturing the votes of centrist switchers," write Richard M. Scammon and Ben J. Wattenberg. "He is in trouble, and may get into deeper trouble if he is perceived to be moving from the center toward the left."

Writing in Public Opinion, a new bi-monthly magazine published by the American Enterprise Institute, Scammon and Wattenberg say that problem could be particularly severe in Carter's own South.

Scammon is director of the Elections Research Center and a director of the Census Bureau. Wattenberg, once a presidential campaign aide to Sen. Henry M. Jackson, is a senior fellow of the institute and an editor of its magazine.

According to their analysis, Carter won in 1976 because of a wholesale shift of white Southern voters out of the Republican column and into his. Hubert H. Humphrey got only 31 percent of the Southern vote in 1968, George McGovern 29 percent in 1972. Carter got 54 percent.

"The big change came among white Southerners," Scammon and Wattenberg say. "Had they not switched to Carter in large numbers in 1976 he would not have won. If those switchers do not — for any reason — vote for him in 1980, it is unlikely that he will win again."

Those voters are generally conservative, but in Carter they had a fellow Southerner, and that overrode ideological leanings which might otherwise have aligned them with Republican Gerald R. Ford.

Now Carter has demonstrated that a Deep South candidate can be elected president, just as John F. Kennedy proved a Roman Catholic could win.

Kennedy's victory effectively eliminated Catholicism as an issue in presidential campaigns. The question Scammon and Wattenberg raise is whether Carter's victory will work the same way on the regional issue.

"Will Southerners have to prove a point about the South, again, after they proved it one in 1976?" they ask.

The question can't be answered now. But if in fact Carter's regional pull is diminished next time, more traditional campaign factors would loom larger.

He would, of course, have incumbency as his issue, and if times are relatively good, that is a big head start on any challenger.

Another of those traditional factors is ideology, which is where Scammon and Wattenberg see the potential risk to Carter's Southern base.

Seminar on kids tomorrow

"The Ideal Parent," "The Child in All of Us," and "The Magic of Living" will be the contents of a one-day seminar on "Nurturing the Whole Child" on Wednesday from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Walnut Creek Civic Arts Theatre.

According to John M. Kennedy, president of the Mental Health Association of Contra Costa County, a film on Erik H. Erikson's developmental theory of personality will also be shown.

The Seminar is designed to cover topics of concern to parents, professionals, and others who are interested in the world we construct for children and ourselves. "Today's pace has increased to the point where many are losing touch with the needs and potentials of children," Kennedy says.

Muriel James and Dr. Ernest F. Pecci will be two of the speakers. James will discuss "The Child in All of Us." She is a licensed marriage, family, and child counselor and holds a doctorate in education from U.C. at Berkeley.

Her discussion will focus on some of the ways in which all of us can help nurture the creative and loving components of our own personality and thereby provide children with full opportunities for growth.
